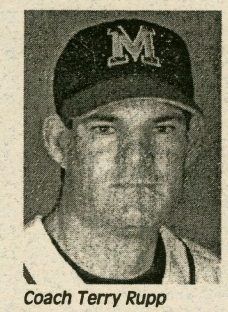
GAMENOTES
Maryland vs. Virginia
April 16-18, 2004
Bowie, Md.

MARYLAND FACES OFF WITH ACC FOE, NO. 23 VIRGINIA



Coach Terry Rupp

• The University of Maryland will play host to ACC foe University of Virginia this weekend. The games, originally scheduled to be played at Shipley Field in College Park, have been moved to Prince George's Stadium in Bowie, Md., due to weather-related delays in the installation of an artificial turf infield at Shipley. Friday and Saturday's games are both scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., while Sunday's game is set for 1 p.m.

• The two schools have been very competitive with each other throughout history, as the Cavaliers hold a 74-73-1 lead in the all-time series. The Terrapins' last victory over Virginia was a 10-3 win on April 6, 2002, in College Park.

• The Cavailiers will head into this weekend's series with an ACC-leading 11-4 conference record. Virginia is ranked No. 23 by Baseball America and No. 24 by the National Collegiate Baseball Writers Association. Last weekend, the Cavaliers swept Clemson University in a three-game set in Charlottesville, Va.

• Fans can follow each game's action with live stats through www.umterps.com or by a live radio broadcast by logging onto www.wmucsports.com.

MARYLAND DROPS THREE TO NC STATE

• The Maryland baseball team fell in three games with North Carolina State University last weekend at Harry Grove Stadium in Frederick, Md.

• The Terps came up short in a 6-3 loss to the Wolfpack on Friday, April 9. Senior Anthony Buffone led the way offensively for Maryland, knocking in a run on a 3-for-4 performance. Junior Jason Maxey hit his second home run of the season in the game, and junior Will Frazier picked up a pair of hits in the loss.

• Starting on the mound for the Terps, junior Chris Clem struck out six batters while issuing just one walk in eight innings of work, while freshman Dan Waters came out of the bullpen to pitch a scoreless ninth inning.

• The two schools decided to play a doubleheader on Saturday, April 10, due to expected inclement weather on Sunday. Maryland dropped the first game to NC State by a score of 3-0 and the second game, 6-3.

• Junior Kevin Hart started the first game for the Terps, not allowing an earned run in seven innings of work. Hart struck out nine batters while allowing just three hits and one walk to the Wolfpack. Junior Justin Hulse pitched 1.1 perfect innings of relief and also made an appearance at the plate.

• In the second game, junior Sean Kane took the mound for six innings. Kane gave up two earned runs on six hits while recording four strikeouts in the loss. Freshman Casey Baron pitched a perfect inning of relief after coming in for the ninth.

POWERING UP THE OFFENSE

• Sophomore Brian Jarosinski has emerged as one of the top power hitters in the ACC this season. As of Monday, April 12, Jarosinski was tied for the ACC-lead with 12 home runs and in third for RBI with 43. He ranks seventh in the conference with 2.41 total bases per game.

• After redshirting his first year at Maryland, Jarosinski has dedicated himself both in the weight room and on the field. He is an extremely hard worker, and has been constantly improving since his debut last season.

• This season, Jarosinski is hitting .277 and leads the team with 43 RBI, 12 home runs and a .631 slugging percentage. Last season, he had a .314 batting average with two home runs and 14 RBI.

• Jarosinski's power production has come at a very valuable time for Maryland, as it is currently missing the offensive prowess of his high school teammate and preseason All-American, Justin Maxwell. Jarosinski started the first eight games of the season in right field and has since moved to center.

• SEBaseball.com has listed Jarosinski and his teammate Mike Costantino as two of the 12 players to look for in the ACC for 2004. Coaches feel that their bats will be integral parts of the Terrapins' success this season.

TERRAPINS ATOP ACC IN SEVERAL CATEGORIES

• Maryland's performance this season has it ranked at the top of the Atlantic Coast Conference in several categories for both its offense and pitching.

• As of Monday, April 12, the Terrapins were fifth in the conference with a .465 slugging percentage. The Terps have been selective at the plate as well, striking out 210 times which is the second-lowest total in the ACC. The Terps are second in the conference with 84 doubles and are fifth with 35 home runs.

• The Terrapin pitching staff has also performed at the top of the ACC in several categories. Maryland's pitchers have shown good command over their pitches, issuing just 98 walks, placing them second in the conference.

• Maryland's pitching staff is second in the ACC with 16 home runs surrendered, while the Terps are fourth in the conference with 8.78 strikouts per nine innings pitched. Justin Hulse is fourth in the ACC with four saves.

• Chris Clem currently ranks fifth with 9.3 strikeouts per game while Kevin Hart is third with 9.71 and Ben Pfinsgraff is sixth with 9.17. Clem is also second in the league lead with 63 total strikeouts and is one of three ACC pitchers to throw at least two complete games this season. He is ranked fifth in the conference for 6.78 innings pitcher per game.

• Brian Jarosinski isn't the only Terrapin batter ranked among the ACC's best. Will Frazier is fifth in the conference with a .386 batting average while Matt Maropis is seventh with a .373 average and Anthony Buffone ranks ninth hitting .365.

• Buffone also ranks third in the ACC with 1.59 hits per game. He leads the conference with .44 doubles per game while Dan Melvin is tied for third with .38. Matt Maropis is fourth in the conference with .1 triples per game.

JUNIORS' EXPERIENCE A VALUABLE ASSET

• Several juniors on this year's Maryland baseball team have been coming on strong of late, letting their experience show through to help the squad in many different ways.

• Junior Will Frazier has been providing a consistent bat at the plate for the Terrapins this season. He is currently leading the team with a .386 batting average and third with a .561 slugging percentage. Frazier has seen most of his action starting in left field this season. He improved his defensive skills over the offseason, and has 43 putouts without recording an error this year.

• The Terrapins are starting to see the reemergence of junior Jason Maxey, who had struggled after coming back from a broken bone in his wrist that sidelined him for the first half of the 2003 season. Maxey has turned up his performance at the plate recently hitting .274 on the season with two home runs.

• Playing strong behind the plate for the Terps has been junior Bobby Ryan. Ryan is a solid defensive catcher who helps Maryland by keeping opposing base runners in check. Ryan, who has started 23 games at catcher this year, has thrown out 11-of-39 attempted base stealers and has only allowed three passed balls.

WINNING WAYS START WITH THE STARTING PITCHERS

• The Maryland coaches believe that the pitching staff will play an essential role in Terrapin success this season. Pitching coach Ben Bachmann has been working with the staff to make adjustments so that it can continue the success of recent years. Chris Clem and Kevin Hart have been competing for the top spot in the starting rotation, while Sean Kane has been pitching in the final weekend spot.

• Clem leads this year's team with nine starts and 61.0 innings pitched. He also tops the group with 63 strikeouts. Clem struck out a career-high 15 batters in his start against Buffalo. Last season, Clem had the most wins (five) and starts (13) among Terrapin pitchers. Coaches feel that his experience in ACC competition should be a valuable asset for the Terps in conference play.
